

Provenance audit — the one place links live, for the operator only v1.2.1

Why split them

same data, links stripped

Chris's rule (R11): mechanics should never see external links — only the raw + filtered data correlated to the authoritative manuals. But someone still has to be able to VERIFY where an external value came from. The only way to do this is to have the capability in one operator-only place: it shows the archived Wayback snapshot URL, the original live URL, and the snapshot date for every gap-fill, so a source can be spot-checked — without ever leaking a link to Masterfile, dossier, or Work Order. The manuals stay authoritative; external values remain labelled unconfirmed everywhere.
